Holding the Government Accountable to its Promise to End Poverty, Social Exclusion & Discrimination

Background and methodology

Even as political parties table their promises and script a roadmap for the next five years in preparation for the Indian General Elections, 2014, the People's Manifesto is an effort to give voice to the demands, concerns and aspirations of the poor and excluded across the country. Through an inclusive and localized process of consultation and dialogue, more than 4 lakh citizens have come together to create a national agenda for development, rights, services, governance and accountability. This effort has provided an opportunity for the citizens to directly engage with the upcoming elections and voice their demands for the future agenda of the country.

Undertaken by Wada Na Todo Abhiyan the consultative process was spread over 210 parliamentary constituencies across 24 states through our state partners. Constituencies were selected on the basis of political importance (Rae Baerelli, Amethi, Varanasi, UP) and poor performance of development indicators (Kalahandi, Odisha).

A vast network of civil society organisations, people's networks, women's organisations, trade unions, student groups, dalit and tribal groups and other networks representing various marginalized sections contributed to this massive mobilization and participatory discussion. 'Charter of Demands' was developed through public meetings held in villages, Panchayats, town halls, across districts for each constituency. At the state and national level, the manifesto is being shared with representatives of all political parties, standing and aspiring candidates for Lok Sabha elections and members of the drafting committee as direct inputs from the citizens to shape their political commitment.

The process has been led and orchestrated by Wada Na Todo Abhiyan (WNTA), a national campaign consisting of more than 4000 CSOs and People's Organizations working on 'holding the government accountable to its promise to end Poverty, Social Exclusion & Discrimination'.

People's Voice

The People's Manifesto clearly reflects an urgency to address inequalities and calls for a greater commitment to fulfilling the promise of basic services – particularly, health, education, water and sanitation and food security. The poorest and most excluded are systematically deprived of the benefits of development and economic progress. Welfare schemes and policy reforms are not enough. People have demanded structural adjustments that would overthrow deeply entrenched hegemonies and put an end to discrimination. Key emphases emerging from the people include the need for greater regulation of the private sector particularly in health, education, land rights and in preservation of forest and natural resources, a strong justice delivery system, protection of rights and entitlements across all sections of marginalized and vulnerable groups including women, children, dalits, muslims, adivasis, persons with disability and the LGBT community. The People's Manifesto tables an extremely constructive critique of the policy instruments and large social sector investments by pointing out critical flaws that compromise their efficacy and impact. Recommendations on governance, decentralized planning and resource allocation, are important inputs that could frame the political and social commitment of the forthcoming government in an effective way. The manifesto prioritises upholding national integrity and simultaneously protecting the rights of the excluded, with emphasis on local and specific development needs. On various urgent matters such as health, it has called for time bound commitments.

People's review of India in the past decade

India has embarked on an intensive economic and social reform in the past two decades. Various pro-poor and progressive reforms have been initiated with budgetary allocations for a number of large flagship programs. Yet economic growth and policy reforms have failed to reduce wide disparities in income and standards of living exist across states and social groups, rendering progress or social protection ineffective for a large majority.

Exclusion is the central dimension of poverty in India

In a country which houses the second largest population of the poor, discrimination of the poorest and most marginalised across caste, religion, tribal groups, women and girls, remain as the biggest impediment to an equitable and just society. In a country of 1.2 billion people, the excluded groups – dalits, adivasis, muslims and other minorities – constitute 38 per cent of the population – a large percentage of the world's most marginalized.

The main causes of inequality are the practices of discriminatory employment and historic deprivation of assets and this is directly linked to lack of choice resulting in exclusion from healthcare, education and decent employment i.e. access to a better and empowered life.

Discrimination against women: the multiplier effect

Despite legal safeguards, violation of women and girls continue unabated. In the recent decades, India has passed several legislations, particularly those that address violence against women in the public and domestic spheres including laws on female foeticide, dowry, bigamy, domestic violence, rape and sexual assault. Yet the safety net has failed to improve the lot of women who continue to be vulnerable and are relegated to the margins of benefit and empowerment.

Education has overlooked issues related to quality, access and employability

India is poised to meet the MDG targets on education by delivering on the target of 100% enrolment in primary education and an equal enrolment ratio of boys and girls up to Class V. While advancements have taken place, quality of learning, equitable access and high drop-out rate particularly in girls are significant impediments. Basic literacy is not enough as it does not translate to employability or lift people out of poverty and deprivation.

The government's commitment to universalisation through the landmark Right to Education Act, is considered a good start but an inadequate one as the praxis has been beset with challenges of planning and infrastructure. Below par quality of teaching is punctuated by caste and religion based discrimination. Children of dalit, tribal and other minority groups, particularly girls, often face severe harassment at school from peers and teachers, forcing them to drop out. Girls drop out of school commonly due to lack of separate toilet facilities, demands of surrogate parenting and increased pressure of domestic chores brought on by water scarcity and other causes.

Healthcare, sanitation and access to safe drinking water

Health care is a pressing concern, particularly slow progress on improvement in conditions of maternal health, maternal mortality, infant and under five mortality and malnutrition. Lack of infrastructure, trained medical practitioners in difficult to access parts of the country are some of reasons, aggravated by social practices, prejudice against women making it difficult for them to access health benefits, lack of awareness, escalating food prices. Privatisation of healthcare and medicine patents have driven up costs, resulting in health shocks that deplete the meager income of poor families or force them to opt out of treatment. The primary area of concern in case of children is the struggle to improve their survival chances one month after birth and malnutrition.

People's living conditions are worsened by lack of sanitation facilities and availability of clean drinking water. In rural as well as urban part of the country, health conditions are severely affected as alarmingly large sections of people survive on unsafe water and live amidst absent sanitation facilities.

Growth and progress led by access to decent jobs and economic opportunities have eluded the poorest and most marginalized.

GDP led growth is not sufficient to lift people out of poverty, to reduce inequalities and to improve social conditions. Inflation, rising food prices and lack of jobs have marred progress, particularly for the bottom 20 per cent of the population. Various factors such as lack of decent and fair employment opportunities, vulnerable working conditions particularly for women, continuing practice of child labour and a slow agricultural sector, plagued by lack of incentives and safeguards, have resulted in large pockets of income inequality.

Rising prices and market dynamics have brought about a food crisis

Staple food crops such as rice and millet have been replaced with cash crops. More and more people are sliding into food insecurity and have reduced access to nutritional food.

Conflict, corruption, crime and coalition politics emerge as challenges to India's impressive record as the world's largest democracy, calling for a greater commitment to human rights, accountability and freedom from violence.

Coalition politics has resulted in an unstable federal system with long hours at the parliament wasted on partisan debates, pushing back important legislations and amendments. Gaps in governance, lack of accountability and commitment to human rights have emerged as challenges to India's impressive record as the world's largest democracy. It has resulted in a lack luster implementation of basic services and perpetuated an overall environment of corruption that undercuts all social protection programs and progressive reforms. Indifferent governance is also linked to peace and human rights particularly in conflict affected parts of the country such as the North Eastern states and Jammu & Kashmir.

Key Demands

1. ENSURE HIGHEST STANDARDS OF HEALTHCARE ACCESSIBLE TO AND AFFORDABLE BY ALL, UPGRADE THE PUBLIC HEALTH FACILITIES AND ADDRESS AS A PRIORITY HEALTH EMERGENCIES SUCH AS MATERNAL AND INFANT HEALTH AND MORTALITY.

- Stronger implementation of the National Urban Health Mission especially for the slum and street dwellers.
- Impose regulations on the private medical sector to mitigate health shocks and financial debts incurred by a vast majority of India. Roll out the Clinical Establishment Act in all states making it mandatory for all private establishments to register and adhere to the regulations which include free beds and treatment for the poor.
- Improve implementation and eradicate corruption in all maternal and child health related programs. Increase budgetary allocations and provide safeguards and redressal mechanisms to ensure service delivery.
- Enforce effective implementation of Janani Suraksha Yojna, increase prevalence of safe institutional deliveries, ante-natal and neo-natal care.

- Reduce under 5 mortality rate to 42 per 1000 live births by 2018 and infant mortality rate to 27 per 1000 live births by 2020.
- Reduce maternal mortality rate to 109 per 100,000 births by 2020.
- Uphold and commit towards a broader purview of healthcare that includes social determinants such as access to safe drinking water, sanitation facilities, mental well being, non discriminatory standards for people with various kinds of disabilities.
- Institutionalize the role of civil society organisations in flagship programmes of government on basic services such as education, health and livelihood etc.

2. PREVENT HEALTH CONDITIONS FROM WORSENING BY ENSURING UNIVERSAL ACCESS TO SAFE DRINKING WATER AND SANITATION FACILITIES

- Ensure availability of purified piped water in all urban areas; ensure regular maintenance of pipes, availability of testing facilities for arsenic, fluoride and other forms of contamination, prevent outbreak of water borne diseases.
- Install deep tubewells in drought prone areas with additional responsibility shouldered by local authorities to meet water needs.
- Implement a convergence roadmap across ministries and departments for better water resource management.
- Capacity building of communities for ownership and maintenance of water distribution systems and water bodies.
- Every village and urban settlement to have household level toilets, effective drainage and sanitation systems, waste disposal and recycling.
- Allocate a special budget component for hygiene and sanitation requirements of young girls and women, particularly for menstrual health.

3. PROTECT EDUCATION AS A FUNDAMENTAL RIGHT BY EFFECTIVELY IMPLEMENTING THE RIGHT TO EDUCATION (RTE) ACT 2009, ARREST DROP-OUT RATES AND IMPROVE QUALITY OF TEACHING AND LEARNING OUTCOMES

- Increase funding for education to a minimum of 6 per cent of GDP and ensure the complete utilization of these resources.
- Fill existing gap of 1.18 million teachers through a recruitment drive; 50% of teachers should be women. Enforce measures related to quality of teaching such as teachers per subject, teaching equipment, learning materials, minimum working hours, qualification of teachers, IT based learning environment.
- Initiate a drive including age appropriate admission rules to bring back the millions out-of-school children.
- Set up separate toilets for girls in all schools; incentivize education for girls through measures such as crèche facilities at schools to support sibling surrogacy, enforce security measure for girls to attend school safely.
- revive the promise of nutritious Mid Day meals, available without discrimination to all and institute mechanisms to monitor safety and quality of the food.
- Improve access to schools; set up schools in adequate numbers and frequency across the country so that a child has to walk no more than 5 kms; provide mobile school facilities for children of nomadic tribes, migrant labours and construction workers.
- Extend the purview of RTE Act to 18 years, in line with the internationally recognized definition of childhood. Bring pre-school children under the purview of RTE.
- Take stringent and closely monitored steps to ensure social inclusion in all schools, including provisions for children with special needs.
- Promote teaching in mother tongue; introduce Urdu as a method of instruction.
- Ensure quality education in government schools which is missing.

4. ENSURE NUTRITIOUS FOOD FOR ALL THROUGH EFFECTIVE IMPLEMENTATION OF THE NATIONAL FOOD SECURITY ACT

- Universalize coverage of National Food Security Act; include pulses and edible oil along with the food grain entitlements to all households. Make clear provisions to cover migrant workers, homeless population, destitute people and out of school children. Set-up community kitchens in urban areas.
- Implement restructured ICDS, set up anganwadi cum crèches and extend coverage of temporary settlement to all migrant and street children; ensure nutrition rich food for pregnant and lactating mother.
- Improve delivery of mid-day meal scheme, including nutritional quality of meals.
- Encourage decentralized procurement, especially from small and marginal farmers and adopt strong measure to arrest corruption and profiteering in the Public Distribution System (PDS).
- Arrest food inflation by putting an end to and adopting strict punitive measures against corrupt practices such as hoarding of food grains, speculating etc.
- Awareness drives and legal safeguards to address deeply entrenched social practices such as discriminatory feeding of the girl child and women of the family, child marriage etc which perpetuate malnutrition particularly amongst girls and women.
- Ensure that entitlements for the BPL category are disbursed on a timely and accountable manner; prompt delivery of BPL cards, widow and old age pension.

5. INCREASE AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTIVITY THROUGH SUSTAINABLE METHODS AND REVIVE THE FARMING SECTOR AS A LIVELIHOOD AND ECONOMIC OPPORTUNITY

- Constitute a special task force to propagate, devise and provide technical expertise on sustainable farming practices.

- Promote organic farming.
- Ensure that farmers receive fair prices for their produce.
- In order to make the state self-sufficient in the production of seeds, agricultural research centers, agricultural universities and other agriculture research institutes may be strengthened with proper and adequate means and infrastructure.
- Include farm labour under the permissible list of MGNREGA works.
- Secure and improve financial assistance for the farmers; make the loan sanction process easier; regulate financial institutions to ensure that the farmer does not slip into chronic debt.
- Ban production of crops and seeds through genetic engineering; invest in state held seed banks and grain storages at the Panchayat level.

6. RECOGNISE HOUSING AS A HUMAN RIGHT BY ENSURING DECENT LIVING CONDITIONS FOR THE URBAN POOR AND PROTECTION OF THE RIGHTS OF DISPLACED PERSONS

- Legislate National Housing Policy and National Rehabilitation Policy. Ensure mandatory provisions of 25-40 % of land in City Development Plans (CDPs) for housing of the urban poor.
- Amend the Model Property Rights to Slum Dwellers Act 2011 to abolish punitive action against the urban poor, decriminalize settlers and slum dwellers.
