When: Friday 22\textsuperscript{nd} May 2020

What: A global day of action. We’ll be linked by a common hashtag – #StrongerTogether – and unifying theme of colour but the day of action is intended to be flexible so:

- Partners can adapt it to their own asks and messages
- People can show their solidarity in their own creative way.

We want to bring brightness and hope into people’s lives, using colour as a simple and visual way to send a message of hope and as a connector for people around the world.

Organize a solidarity action

1. We know that change for a more just and sustainable world starts in each of our actions.

So many have been engaging in acts of solidarity to help those in need and to thank those on the frontlines of the Covid-19 pandemic.

You can also act in solidarity by:

Supporting older persons, the homeless, migrant workers, persons with disabilities, refugees, female-headed households, and others who need support.

Supporting their health, with food & mental support and strengthening their voices with local administrations and national authorities.

Help people protect themselves from the virus by providing water, soap and masks.

Share your actions & initiatives

2. Show what you doing here and inspire others!

Share your solidarity actions, whether you are organising online or on the ground!

#IStandWith... vulnerable people

3. Health, sanitation, social and government workers as well as the media are serving people and risking their lives on the frontlines. The poor, migrant workers, small vendors, and farmers have lost jobs and income and are suffering from hunger and desperation. Persons with disabilities and refugees are most affected by this global crisis.

#IStandWith posts and tweets express solidarity and empathy with the most vulnerable groups, draws global attention to them and ask governments for policies to support them.

Actions:

- Take a photo with your key messages written on a placard or paper with #IStandWith and #StrongerTogether
- Do a colorful painting with the #IStandWith messages
- Post your key messages on social media with #StrongerTogether and share the link of the joint civil society statement – you can find the key messages of the statement and images to share here.
Draw Rainbows

4. Draw/paint a rainbow and display it in the window.

5. Draw rainbows or messages of solidarity in chalk for your community

Write and Share

7. Write a message of solidarity and share it on your social media channels.
People Paper Chains

8. A fun way to show solidarity with children everywhere. Create a colourful paper chain and hold it up in a photograph to create a link across the world. Don’t have paper? Use your imagination! Bake a row of gingerbread people, draw them in chalk or make them from clothing.
Colourful Rocks

9. Write messages of solidarity on rocks for your community.
10. Make your virtual meetings / Zoom calls colourful by choosing a background!
Every action leads to others, in a ripple of transformative change. The colorful butterfly wing can inspire people and institutions to take action now to prevent COVID-19 while also shifting behaviors that over time support the achievement of the SDGs.

Use the artwork in their imagery, print out the black and white version for coloring at home, and also using the Augmented Reality filter linked above to create their own photo/video statement, tagging #StrongerTogether and sharing their solidarity action.
